In the following section, we explore the position of sadgah in the system of Islamic law and practice, and further elaborate on how it conforms and validates faith (voluntary, charitable giving), as well as its role in the Islamic tradition. We then illustrate how the following tradition reported of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in the Quran and Sunnah:

"This is the culture of material wealth and lifestyle, and the cultivation of the heart. To achieve this, one must give charity (sadgah) as a key and central role.

Introduction

Benouda Bennadi and Fadlalla Ghoneim

Analysis: Dimensions of Charity in Islam: A Textual

Islamic Philosophy for Learning and Excellence