Acute angle closure glaucoma resulting from myelodysplasia.

Ang GS, Tey A, Ng WS, Subrayan V.
Department of Ophthalmology, Raigmore Hospital, Inverness, United Kingdom.

Abstract
Patients with bleeding diatheses can present in a variety of clinical situations. When these patients manifest with ocular complications, their management can be challenging. We describe a case of acute angle closure glaucoma secondary to subretinal haemorrhage, with myelodysplasia as a predisposing factor.

PMID: 18246923 [PubMed - indexed for MEDLINE]